Foreword

One day in June, 1948, Mrs. Adriano stood up in our meeting and suggested the idea which became the basis of this modest collection of recipes. The members of our club agreed with her that if we, here in the Philippines, enjoy cooking and tasting the recipes of other lands, there must also be other housewives who will enjoy cooking and tasting our native Filipino foods.

The recipes in this booklet have been prepared and tested by the members of the Singalong-San Andres Women's Club. They undertook their preparations with great enthusiasm. Like all women, they got a big thrill from the thought of sharing a culinary secret with another. Most of the recipes they prepared were their own favorite dishes or dishes for which they had achieved a reputation in the community. Hence, I feel very safe in recommending them to other cooks and housewives, especially because I know they have been prepared in private kitchens under conditions similar to those that any other housewife will work.

Cooking is a universal art. It binds all of us women together. We all want to see that gleam of delight in the eyes of our families when they see hot delicious food at the moment they want to have it. That is why our club undertook this project because we know it will answer a need among other women. Those who love native cooking but do not know where to learn it, since their grandmothers or mothers are not at hand to teach them, will find in our little booklet an answer to their desire.

We hope to work further on this project, should we find it well received by our friends. Needless to say, all credit for our endeavor goes to our members, who each worked to perfect and standardize her particular recipe.

Purpose of this Book

The object of this Cook-Book is to make available to the Filipino housewives, a practical guide in the preparation of nutritious and well balanced daily meals. Housewives are daily confronted with the usual problem of, "What shall I cook for lunch today" or "How long ago since have I served that adobo?" As an attempt to help them solve this problem, especially those who perform their own cooking at home, a consolidated list of menus prepared by the individual members was prepared which resulted in the publication of this so called "31-Day Menu Cook-Book."

In addition to the above-mentioned lists of menus intended for the average-income families, we have included a supplementary list of special recipes contributed by prominent ladies of the city of Manila.

The book also provides for the convenience of the housewives, a shopping list to guide daily marketing.

We wish to acknowledge with gratitude our appreciation to all those members and others who have made possible the publication of this cook-book.

Origin of These Recipes

Just after several discussions concerning the preparation of food, the club has decided to collect recipes from each member to be formed into a pamphlet. Mrs. Mariquita V. Adriano was appointed by the President (Mrs. Rosario K. Roxas) to supervise and to take charge of the whole matter.

This pamphlet has been prepared and designed to present local recipes which are simple, practical and economical. Simple, because they do not require complex preparations with too many of "these and that ingredients" yet they may appear delicious and wholesome when they are properly prepared. Practical and economical, because they may be obtained from the local markets at low rates. They are easy to prepare and easy for the pocket.

We hope that our recipes will find a hearty welcome not only in the homes of our own Filipino housewives, but also from the homes of American and Hawaiian friends, in as much as they have requested for our "native recipes."

Try our recipes for they may prove more economical and appetizing than your "chop suey" or "cocido español". Returns from the sale of these pamphlets will be utilized for some charitable purposes by the club. Hoping that our recipes may prove a helpful guide to many housewives.

½ kilo pork
¼ kilo beef

LUNCHEON

Kari-Karing Pata

1 cow's leg (pata)
½ kilo intestines (cow's)
½ kilo goto (cow's)
3 bundles of sitao (at 10 strings each bundle) — cut into 2 inches long 1 banana heart (puso ng saguing) —
sliced finely crosswise
1 big onion sliced

3 ears of garlic crushed
2 tablespoons seeds of achuete soaked
in ½ cup of water
5 regular sized eggplants cut into 1
inch square
1/3 cup toasted rice then powdered
1/3 cup toasted peanuts crushed fine
3 tbsp. lard

Boil enough water to clean the cow's leg, intestines and goto. Cut the cow's leg into desired size, the intestines cut into 3 inches long and the goto into 3 inches square. Wash thoroughly then put in a casserole, cover with water, then boil until tender. Put the frying pan on the stove, put the lard;

when heated put the garlic and when this is brown, add the onions. Get 2 to 3 pieces of the goto or the intestines and place them with the onion and garlic. Then pour the whole thing back in the casserole adding a pinch of salt to taste. Let this boil, adding the sliced banana heart. When the banana heart is a little bit tender, add the sitao then the eggplants. Mash the seeds of achuete in the cup of water making enough coloring. Add this colored water to the casserole. When all is done, add the powdered rice and peanut stirring thoroughly so that it will not stick on the bottom until cooked. Usually this is eaten with bagoong cooked with pork.

3 regular sized bañus (milk fish)
3 regular sized tomatoes cut into fine slices

½ onion sliced finely and small salt to taste
calamansi

Do not remove the scales of the bañus. Cut the bañus from head to tail along the dorsal side. Remove the intestines and clean thoroughly. Sprinkle salt inside the bañus. Mix the sliced tomatoes and onions adding enough salt. Then put this mixture inside the bañus. Tie the bañus around with string or thread. Then prepare the frying pan with enough lard. Fry the bañus. Get the calamansi juice, add a little water and salt. This serves as the sauce to give the proper taste.

Carne Milanese

¼ kilo beef
1 chicken egg, whipped
2 tomatoes

powdered biscocho or biscuit
pepper & salt to taste
few lettuce leaves

Take away the ligaments from the meat and season with salt and pepper. Soak in whipped egg and roll on powdered bread. Fry. When serving, garnish with lettuce leaves around. Put tomatoes sliced very thin on top. Season with mustard if desired.

Prepare a long bamboo stick. Roll dough with the stick as tight as possible. Remove stick and cut dough crosswise about 1 cm. thick. Flatten each piece and roll it thin. Place meat filling and fold on one side. Press edges well, trim it and form into empanada. Fry in deep hot fat until golden brown.

2 eggs
salt and pepper

Remove skin and make six individual fillets free from bones. Marinate in calamansi juice, salt and pepper. Before frying dry well and roll in flour before deeping in beaten eggs. Fry over slow fire well covered. Be sure fish is well cooked before serving.

Coconut Masapan

2 regular size coconut

Gabi Gulay

(The following ingredients are good for eight (8) to ten (10) persons):

25 gabi leaves (regular size)
2 coconuts, matured — grated and extracted
2 centavos worth of ginger — pounded
5 cloves, garlic — pounded

1 big onion — minced
3 green peppers (hot kind)
5 centavos worth of "bagoong na alamang"

Put the pork, shelled shrimps, the "bagoong na alamang", the pounded garlic and ginger into the coconut milk. Add also a teaspoonful of black pepper for flavor. Then add the minced gabi leaves and the cubed stalks and stir well with a spoon, lest your hand will become itchy. Put these mixtures in a pot and cook like the way of cooking rice. In addition, continue heating for not less than 20 minutes more in order that the gabi will be cooked enough to lose its itchiness.

Grease the broiler pan well and put the fish skin side down, on it without the top section. Brush with melted butter or oil. Place in the heated broiler compartment and broil for 15 minutes, or until it is brown. Then reduce the heat, or lower the broiler pan from the flame, and broil slowly for 10 minutes longer. When it is removed from the broiler, season with salt and pepper and a little more melted butter. Sprinkle with chopped parsley and serve with thin slices of lemon.

Cup Custard
